

ACCESSION_        NOTES

- A606     This photo is actually a streetscape with 5 buildings being shown, but the one that seems most important is a 1 1/2 story frame house. The upper window and weatherboarding are gone. I have no idea what street this was.
- A607     An unpainted house with a side porch.
- A608     This house was apparantly beside a sundries-notions store.
- A609     This house looks a lot like the little house that once stood at 721-23 4th Avenue. However, I cannot be positive. See 1955 Fire Insurance Map, Vol.1, pg.50. The house was torn down c. 1978.
- A610     This house looks something like A609, but it isn't.
- A611     "This house has ""insul-brick"" asbestos siding."
- A612     Two front doors, nondescript.
- A613     House has a prominent dormer window.
- A614     House has two dormer windows.
- A615     "House has ""eyebrow"" windows above first floor windows."
- A616     These two houses appear to be photographed from the backyards, which contain junk.
- A618     House appears to be in an average working class neighborhood.
- A619     "In an envelope marked ""N 1st.""
- A620     Nondescript.
- A621     Actually the front door is not in the gable end, but there is a prominent gable over the front door.
- A622     Pallets are stacked in sideyard.
- A623     Lots of mud puddles close to this shabby house.
- A624     "In envelope marked ""Poplar St."" Otherwise, nondescript."
- A625     "Has two front doors. Building looks decrepit. In envelope marked ""S 3rd St.""
- A626     Same angle as A625.
- A627     "House has a prominent outside chimney. In envelope marked ""S 2nd St.""
- A628     Same as A627.
- A629     This home appears to be out in the country. Has an ell.
- A630     Same as A629.
- A631     House has prominent picket fence.
- A632     Same as A631.
- A633     "In an envelope marked ""N 9th."" Has very unusual roofline at back of house."
- A634     Photo shows the other side of the house - see A633.
- A635     "This pair of houses looks rather alike. In envelope marked ""N 9th.""
- A636     The house at right is in process of being extensively remodeled. Same subject as A635.
- A637     "An unpainted duplex. Marked ""N 1st St."" The railroad tracks (probably of 1st St.) are in the foreground. This is NOT the Dr. E.V.Ball home, though it looks a little like it."
- A638     "Rather similar to A637. Marked ""N 1st St.""
- A639     A duplex. One front door has a roof; the other doesn't. Frontal view.
- A640     Just like A639.
- A641     Shows the north gable end. Some boards have been replaced. Same subject as A639.
- A642     Like A641 except the photographers' shadow on bicycle is very apparent.
- A643     An extention ladder is propped against this once dignified house that has a gingerbread porch.

- A644 Same as A643.
- A645 The houses next door are visible but also unknown. Same subject as A643.
- A646 A very nicely kept, dignified duplex.
- A647 More of a frontal view. Same subject as A646.
- A648 Different angle. Same subject as A646.
- A649 This house has a flat platform on top of roof.
- A650 "Same as A649. In envelope marked ""S 3rd St.""
- A651 Different angle. Same subject as A649.
- A652 More of a frontal view. Same subject as A649.
- A653 This house has an enclosed section between the 2 front porches.
- A654 Different angle. Same subject as A653.
- A655 Totally different angle. Same subject as A653.
- A656 Same as A655.
- A657 "An"" L-shaped"" house."
- A658 Same as A657.
- A659 This country house has strange finials in side of roof.
- A660 Same Subject as A659. Different angle.
- A661 Same as A660.
- A662 Same subject as A659. Shows front driveway leading toward house.
- A663 Same as A662.
- A664 Same subject as A659. Different angle.
- A665 Though the front section is 1 1/2 story, the middle section is 2 story. Spacious city yard.
- A666 Same subject as A665. Different angle.
- A667 "Though blurry, house appears to have ""insul-brick"" over frame construction. House also has an ell at the back with prominent chimneys."
- A668 Same as A667.
- A669 This is a very simple Italianate.
- A670 Same angle as A669 but closer up.
- A671 A rather nicely kept house. Trellis in yard and by porch.
- A672 Same as A671.
- A673 "Same subject as A672. Here the house has been ""ruined"" by ""insul-brick"" asbestos siding."
- A674 "Though plain this house has ""nice lines.""
- A675 Same as A674. Different angle.
- A676 This house is on a low hill above the public sidewalk and has concrete blocks for a handrail up to the front door.
- A677 Much like A676.
- A678 "The photo of this house and the nine photos following are of houses that:
1) Have a very irregular outline such as a projecting wing or more than one ""front"" door. 2) Sometimes only the side of the house is visible and not the front door. 3) In one instance heavy foliage obscures the facade making it impossible to determine the exact number of bays (windows). This house has a prominent projecting pavillion. ""49 Mercury convertible in foreground."
- A679 "Prominent projecting pavillion. Photographer's shadow in foreground. In envelope marked ""S 3rd.""
- A680 Prominent projecting pavillion.
- A681 This appears to be the side of the house.
- A682 This appears to be the side of the house.

A683 Foliage obscures facade. House is being torn down.

A684 Side of house has a semi-hexagonal bay.

A685 "The side of a ""bleak house.""

A686 Unpainted house of many angles and high peaked roof.

A687 Prominent projecting pavillion. House has #41 address.

A688 This house has two bay windows across the second floor facade. Front door is in the gable end.

A689 This house has two bay windows across the second floor facade. Gingerbread front porch.

A86a Here the photographer is looking to the southwest. The 2-story frame house on the corner is the D.W. Watson house. Date of the photo is 1949 or after as there are 2 parking meters visible. Over the years, on occasion, the same house may have had different house numbers applied to it. Example: The D.W. Watson House at 118 N. 3rd St. was later numbered 130 and the location after the house was torn down is referred to as 124 N. 3rd St. according to the 1955 Fire Insurance Map, vol. 1 page 2. Building at left is the old White Hall Tavern (124 N. 3rd); the house at right is 130 N. 3rd (See B284).

A1 Shows the north and east sides. Deming Hotel and Industrial Arts Building are in the background.

A2 Shows the north and west sides. The old Christian Church (used as Bookstore for Indiana State Teachers College) and the Terre Haute Gas Corporation at 632 Cherry Street are in background.

A598 Close-up of A597.

A3 Shows north and east sides in summer.

A4 Shows north and east sides in winter.

A5 All photos of the Paul Dresser Birthplace were taken prior to June 5, 1963, when the house was moved to Fairbanks Park. At that time the house was on the east side of S. 2nd Street and faced west. Photo A5 shows front porch with gingerbread intact. Parked in front of the house is a car (ca. 1936), but since the finish is dull the photo could have been taken in 1949 or later.

A6 Similar to A5, but photo was taken earlier in the afternoon.

A7 This front view shows a 1950 Packard 4 dr. sedan.

A8 Diferent view but quite similar to A7 showing Packard

A9 The only photo to show the north side of the ell, which was at the back of the house. A dented '47 or '48 Chevrolet is parked in the front of the house.

A10 This photo and the next two are alike in three ways: 1. The south side of the 2 - story brick ell is visible. 2. The house next door to the south is partly demolished. 3. There is a pile of tile stacked in the tree row.

A11 Much like A10 but photo was taken in winter.

A13 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Shows the north front porch and the west gable end with the original stonework. Photo ca.1950

A14 a.k.a. Dewees- Preston-Smith House . Shows the front porch, east gable end and Poplar Street.

A15 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-SmithHouse. Much like A14, but closer up, Poplar Street in not visible.

A16 "a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. The front porch is partly visible through heavy summer foliage. The only "" summer"" photo in this collection of Preston House views."

after the stone had been removed from the west gable; was replaced with asphalt-type shingles. Interestingly a "'47 Ford 2dr sedan is parked on So. 13 1/2 Street, close to Preston House."

A18 "a.k.a.Dewees-Preston-Smith House. A frontal view or "" shot "" shows what appears to have been a sunken, wide walkway up to the front steps. Again, the "'47 Ford is still parked on So. 13 1/2 Street near the house."

A19 a.k.a.Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Shows the front ( north ) porch as seen from the west gable end with its stonework intact. The unique feature is the gabled barn in the background, not shown on the 1955 Sanborn Insurance Map.

A20 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Practically identical to A19.

A21 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Shows the stone west gable end the eight front porch posts.

A22 "a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. A frontal view. Shows the big rock with the front yard that has the street address - ""1339""."

A23 "a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. The next nine photos (including this photo) of Preston House have a matte finish, are printed on ""Leonar"" paper that has a granular texture, and each have the number ""91"" in green ink stamped on the back. It is interesting to note that Jesse W. Smith, the photographer, lived most of his life at 312 So. 13 1/2 Street; which was only about 400 feet north of Preston House. Therefore it was only natural that he photographed it often. Frontal shot taken from Poplar Street. The only one to be a snow scene in this group."

A24 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Frontal shot.

A25 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Frontal shot.

A26 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Frontal shot, but also shows the east gable end.

A27 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Frontal shot, but also shows the east gable end.

A28 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Frontal shot, but also shows the east gable end (closer-up).

A29 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Frontal shot, rather close-up.

A30 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Frontal shot, farther back.

A31 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Much like A30.

A32 a.k.a. Dewees-Preston-Smith House. Frontal shot, but also shows East Gable End. Photo taken in mid-April as grass is bright green and trees are leafing out.

A33 This photo and A42 appear to be the oldest in J. Smith's collection of Historical Society photos, though all are undated. This is a close-up of the east (front) and north sides.

A34 Same as A33 only smaller.

A35 Shows east and north sides, but structure has a freshly painted look.

A36 The trunks of the white-barked birch trees are bigger in diameter, indicating the photo is more recent than A33. Shows the east (front) and south side. In the background are the house and garage (now razed) at 1334 S 5th Street.

A37 Much like A36 but smaller.

A38 Much like A37 but 6th Street is in the foreground.

A39 East (front) view. 6th Street is brick in foreground. The townhouse at 501-503 Washington Avenue is in the background. A ca.1937 car is parked in the left foreground.

A40 A direct frontal view shows the three white-barked birches.

A42 "This is the ""other old"" photo. See A33. Brickwork is in need of paint.

This shows the north and west sides. Also shows the modillions that were once located between the double brackets (according to David Buchan,Vigo County Historical Society Director)."

A43 Shows the north side and Washington Avenue, which was and still is (Sept 11,1992) brick in the center and concrete along the sides (curbs).

A44 Shot of the north and west (rear) sides. Washington Avenue is in the foreground.

A45 Built by Colonel R. N. Hudson. Shows the south and east (front) sides in the winter.

A46 Shows the south and east (front) sides. Dated January 28,1956. The color is fading. Winter.

A47 Shows the south and east (front) sides. Winter.

A48 Shows the south and east (front) sides. Winter.

A49 Shows the south and east (front) sides closer up.

A50 Frontal shot of east side. A ca. 1936 car is in the foreground. In left background is an interesting view of the large brick 2-story carriage house that was T-shaped.

A51 The east (front) and north sides. Winter. Carriage House and Wabash Apartments in the background.

A52 Same as A51 but smaller.

A53 Shows the east (front) and north sides. Summer foliage. Dated June 9,1952.

A54 East (front) and north sides. Winter.

A55 Emphasis on north side with 20 ft. tall Yellow (Tulip) Poplar trees, planted in Oak Street tree row. Trees are there in 1992.

A56 Almost same perspective as A55.

A57 This is the distinguished-looking carriage house, north side. Irises in bloom - Maytime. See Sanborn Fire Insurance Map, 1955, Vol. 2, p. 177.

A58 This shows the east gable end of the carriage house.

A59 After the first courthouse, this was perhaps the first brick building in Terre Haute. It was the office of Benjamin T. Gilman's pork packing business. It was built in 1824 on Lot 187 according to A.R.Markle. Was still standing on February 22,1948. See Tribune or Markle Scrapbook V. 2, p. 69.

A60 Identical to A59 except for size.

A61 This is a 1 1/2 story frame duplex (two front doors). West side (front) only.

A62 Slightly different angle than A61. A Lovelace Truck Company trailer is parked in the background, next to the house at 114 Chestnut Street. A 1956 Dodge is parked in the mid-ground. See 1896 Fire Insurance Map V.1, p. 43.

A63 Very similar to A62.

A63a "Clue: a few of the smaller photos were in an envelope marked ""N 1st"". Since this group of eight photos was scattered, it took me months to find all of them and group them together. 463 is the house on the left with a sideporch. 459 is at right."

A63c 463 and 465. Same as A63b.

A63d Close-up.

A63e Different angle. N 1st Street railroad in foreground.

A63g "In envelope marked ""N 1st Street""."

A63h Same as A63g.

A64 "An unknown person in black ink has written: "'N 1st Street Terre Haute across from Woodlawn Cemetery'". That is correct. I remember seeing the modest house at 1542 N 1st, tombstones in foreground. Dated June 16,1956."

A65 Much like A64 but closer up. Dated June 16,1956.

A66 Frontal view.

A67 Shows front (east) and north sides. N 1st is in foreground.

A68 Shows front (east) and north sides. Summer.

A69 Close-up. House is decrepit but mostly intact.

A70 Same as A69 but smaller photo.

A71 Much like preceding two photos. Frontal.

A72 Frontal view but shows adjoining junk lumber lot. Last photo to show house intact.

A73 Windows and doors are mostly gone. Shows south side as well as front (west). Vigo County Courthouse dome visible in background.

A74 Quite similar to A73 but photographed further away.

A75 House is in ruins as in preceding two photos. The S 1st railroad is visible in foreground.

A76 Same as A75.

A77 "See 1911 Fire Insurance Map, V.2, p. 152. Someone before me had written "'500 Block S 1st Street'".

A78 "Photographer is "'shooting'" the front (west) and north sides. A 1-story lean-to addition is visible. Duplex. See 1911 Fire Insurance Map V.2, p. 152."

A79 "Photographer is "'shooting'" the front (west) and south sides. A 2-story addition is visible at back."

A80 Frontal view with S 1st Street and the railroad tracks visible in foreground.

A81 Slightly different angle from A80. To the left is the front door of 1202 S 1st Street.

A82 "View of front (west) and south sides. 1) Was in envelope marked "'S 1st St'". 2) Fits description of Fire Insurance Map V. 2, p. 217. 3) I vaguely remember seeing this house. D.N.L."

A84 Same as A83 but closer up.

A85 Different angle. Boyd Tavern in background.

A86 "Two-story frame house at 118 N 3rd (southwest corners 3rd and Mulberry). A.R.Markle's scrapbook (2 Vols. being deaccessioned of Early Terre Haute Buildings) says this was the home and office of D.W.Watson. See Oakley's "'History of Terre Haute'", pgs. 516+518. The Cromwell Furniture Store is in the background."

A87 This is the north (Mulberry St.) side of 118 N 3rd. Photo shows a 1949 Chevy and parking meters that were new in 1949.

A88 "Shows the 2-story brick house that stood south of "'Ye Old Hay Market Tavern'", 201 S 3rd. Bud Taylor's Texaco - 131 S 3rd St. is in background.Information from 1947 City Directory."

A89 Close-up of A88. House next door to the Haymarket Tavern - 203 or 205 S 3rd.

A89a Note the weatherboards. Photo was in an envelope marked S 3rd Street. See 1955 Fire Insurance Map Vol.2, p.165.

A89b Note: House number is barely legible. In right background is the Ball-Porter Funeral Home. I was there in late August 1962 to Sam Lindsay's funeral. 1958 Chevy stationwagon in background. Note: the house has been ruined with asbestos siding.

A89c Different angle. Concrete block garage was once used as an auto-seat-cover business. See 1955 Fire Insurance Map Vol.2, pg.165.

A90 1 1/2-story house that once stood at 1101 S 3rd. Note the narrow entrance of College Street onto 3rd Street. Torn down by 1955 Fire Insurance Map.

A91 This is the frame duplex at 400-404 N 4th. It was originally the J.H.Hudson House built in late 1840's. See Juliet Peddle Scrapbook of Early Terre Haute Homes. Photo shows house with original front porch (east side). Also shows north side with small trailer parked closeby.

A92 Photo taken from same angle as A91 but front porch is gone and a small shed roof has been built over each of the two front doors.

A93 Shows (east) front with porch and south (Chestnut St.) side. House is pinkish. Photo dated June 9,1952. Brentlinger Distributing Company in background.

A94 Shows original front (east) side and south side.Original porch.

A95 Very similar to A94.

A96 Shows south side and east (front) is heavily shadowed.

A97 Like A96 only smaller.

A98 Later photo, because front porch is gone and has been replaced by two small shed roofs.

A99 Shows east (front) and south sides.

A100 Shows south and west (rear) sides.

A101 Same angle as A100. 1957 Chevy stationwagon in foreground.

A102 The house is being torn down, the rafters are visible.

A103 Shows south side only. 1953 Buick Roadmaster 4dr. sedan in foreground.

A104 1 1/2-story brick house.

A105 Same as A104 except size.

A106 Decorative bargeboard at gable eave is gone, as is transom over front door. Front porch gable is different. See Vol.1, pg.20 Sanborn Fire Insurance Map.

A107 Tall 2-story frame house at southeast corner of N 4th and Sycamore. 1948 Oldsmobile in foreground.

A107a Shows north side along Sycamore Street. In background is beer warehouse. See Fire Insurance Map 1955, Vol.1, pgs.20 and 21.

A108 Different angle. This shows the south side and west (front).

A109 1-story garage-type cottage. In 1936 City Directory Louis Marquis lived there. House is very close to railroad. In the background is a 2-story frame house that has a Canal Street address.

A110 Slightly different angle from A109.

A111 Dignified, Federal style 2-story brick house. Facade is marred by shed roof over front door. There is a 1-story ell at the back. The George Naylor House.

A113 Like A111 but smaller.

A114 Much like preceding three photographs, but the photographer was farther away. The ell has dark siding. The J.Peddle Scrapbook identifies this as the George Naylor House. It was torn down before the 1955 Sanborn Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg.26.

A115 More of a frontal view. This was the George Naylor House. See Juliet Peddle Scrapbook on Early Terre Haute Homes.

A116 Much like A115.

A117 633-35-37-39-41-43 N 4th. House at right is 633 N 4th. Large 2-story brick townhouse is 635-37-39-41-43. In background is shed of the Big Four Railroad. See Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg.27.

A118 Closer up.

A119 Same as A118.

A120 "The clues to this house were the unusual ""L-shaped"" front porch and the freight house of the Big Four Railroad. On Fire Insurance Map Volume 1 ."

A121 East frontal shot and also north side.

A122 Same as A121.

A123 View of south side and (east) front. Junkyard.

A124 Same as A123.

A125 View of south and (east) front, but photographer is farther away. There are no junk vehicles in the yard. In the background is the loading dock of the C.C.C.+ St.Louis freighthouse. See 1955 Vol.1, pg.26 Sanborn Fire Insurance Map. 1944 City Directory - residence of Jason Faulkner, lumber dealer.

A126 """"Bud's Home Restaurant"". A.R.Markle Vol.2. pg.70 identifies this house as owned by Zenas Smith (1796-1877), and that he probably built it about 1839. The style is Federal, with a fractable at the north gable and ""eyebrow"" windows over the taller 1st floor windows. The gingerbread porch may have been added later. In this photo it houses a floppy-looking restaurant. 1930's cars are parked nearby. Time of photo probably circa 1935-45."

A127 The house looks better than A126, perhaps because it is painted. Also partly visible are 308 and 310 S 4th Street and the rooftops of 314 and 318. The back of 409 Poplar Street is partly visible.

A128 From this angle not as many houses are visible as in A127. Cars in photo are ca.1939.

A131 Frontal view. Shows grecian style front door transom with intricate transom design and plain sidelights.

A132 Same as A131 but closer up. Shows detail of fractable above north gable.

A133 Shows south gable and some of 306 S 4th.

A134 Distant view of (west) front and south side. In background is 412-414 Poplar St., which was St.Joseph Convent in 1949 City Directory.

A135 Shows (west) front and south sides. More of front of 306 S 4th is visible than A133. Twin steeples of St. Joseph's in background.

A136 325-27-31-333 S 4th. The Wahler Flats. Shows the east front with four projecting bays and two porches.

A137 Same as A136.Shows neighboring houses to the north.

A138 Slightly different angle. See Fire Insurance Map 1955, Vol.2, pg.166.

A139 Different angle. Caroline Wahler (1834-1894) is said to have built these.

A140 Same as A139 but smaller.

A141 The house at left is 616 S 4th. At right is 620 before 1955 when it had an unusual front porch with conical roof.

A142 "The Williams-Warren-Zimmerman House originally stood at the northwest corner of 6th and Deming. It was moved to its present location between June,1873 and June 6,1874. Shown on the 1854 Map of Terre Haute, it was built by Henry D. Williams (1818-1875), probably in 1849 following his marriage to Martha Hager on Sept.4, 1848. From 1859 to about 1874 it was the home of W.B.Warren and family; from 1889 until 1934 the George S. Zimmerman family. David Lewis had the house placed on the National Register of Historical Places October 23,1980. In 1992 (Oct) it is the only privately owned house in Vigo County on the National Register. The house may have been built 1849,1850 or 1851. However, by 1852 Henry D. Williams was building another house - that became known as "'Rowdy Hall'" after it was purchased by the notorious Sam McDonald in 1871. "' Historically Speaking'", pgs.376-77, confirms the 1852 date. In photo A142, the house has a tin roof and the chimneys are unstuccoed. There is a single chimney in the ell, where the kitchen was. There are three german linden trees on the front of the property - "'a forest'" as Mrs. Bessie Davern told me when I purchased the house in June, 1967. Only the middle tree of the three remains. Noteworthy in this photo and the next are the arch topped three dormer window sashes. They have been changed. The north gable end (parallel to Park St.) sill casing board has been partly removed and on the north side of the front porch, the board has been allowed to sag. The original front door of solid wood is in place. Someone has started to paint the middle part of the north gable end. It should be noted that George S. Zimmerman (1851-1940) was a tinner by trade. Hence, the tin roof. This photo is very similar to one I own taken in 1940 by Juliet Peddle (1899-1979). I distinctly remember her telling me "'1940'" because I associated that with the year of my birth. DNL"

A143 "This photo was taken in 1939 or 1940. Not 1938, as the Zimmermans took down the shutters when they left the house that year and moved to the country, north of North Terre Haute. Of course, the photos might be 1941, 1942 etc. Noteworthy in this photo is the absence of a door (to 904) in the south gable end. The detail of the arch-topped dormer windows is also beautiful. There is a "'Sale'" sign to the left of the front door. 414-416 Park St. is in the background and the little Maple tree in front of it, is now a larger tree. In the right distant background can be seen the 1-story portion of the carriage house. See pg. 21 of the 1896 Fire Insurance Map. Note: there was no house at 906-908 S 4th in 1896. However, in 1911, Vol. 2, pg. 185, there was a house at 906-908."

A144 In the foreground is a 1951 Ford that has a front tire removed. Photo taken prior to January 1967, as that is when 906-908 was torn down. House looks substantially like this today (10-15-92) except I removed the shed roof over south gable door.

A145 "This is the best photo I have seen of 906-908 which was razed in January 1967. I was told by Etta Zimmerman Kisk (1894-1971) that 906-908 was formerly the home of her "'Aunt'" Caroline Wahler that once stood at 1039 S 1st according to the 1892 City Directory. Mrs. Wahler had no children and died in 1894. By 1911 her heirs had moved 1039 to its address at 906-908. The house appears to be painted fairly well, and there is a Venetian blind at the north front window."

A146 The house at the southwest corner of 4th and Farrington Street. The porch has been screened. The old Crawford School at 928 S 3rd is in the right background.

A148 A townhouse-type brick apartment. The gingerbread porch was removed a long time ago, as was the house to the right (1010).

A149 The Torner House Girls Club. This was not the Torner home, but was given by the terms of Miss Torner's Will. Today (10-15-92), it is in very bad condition and was supposed to have been razed a long time ago.

A150 "This is a distinguished looking Italianate house, but the front porch posts do not look "'right'". The brick is surely not part of the original design."

A151 This 2-story frame duplex is a good example of the Italianate style. House at left is 632 N 5th.

A152 Different angle.

A153 2-story brick. Front door has transom and sidelights. Was torn down in September 1971. Mantel from this house's parlor was used to replace the one in the back parlor of 900-04 S 4th .

A154 "The John Sibley House. This part of Terre Haute was once called ""Sibleytown"" back in Canal Days - the 1840's and 50's. 2-story frame house has small inset back porch that is easily identified in Vol.1, pg.27 of Fire Insurance Maps. 1959 Dodge stationwagon in foreground."

A155 Same as A154 but smaller.

A156 Different angle.

A157 Same as A156.

A158 Different angle. Shows a little of the north side. The large sycamore tree is barely visible at extreme right.

A159 "This photo was taken in a different year than the preceding five photos. The house looks better, sounder, less ""junky"" - but where the large sycamore was in preceding five photos, there is a very small tree that would appear to be a small sycamore - but that would make this photo 30 or more years earlier, which seems unlikely."

A160 This one shows the north side of the ell at back of house. In the background is 513 Tippecanoe Street.

A161 722-24-26-28-730. This large Victorian apartment house burned about 1980. Here the photographer is looking northwest.

A162 722-24-26-28-730. The photographer is looking southwest. There is a 1947 or '48 Mercury in left foreground.

A163 This 2-story frame stood next to Miller-Sargent-Miller Real Estate Office.

A164 2-story brick with tower. Had a fire about 1989. Has been repaired and remodeled this past summer (1992), but still looks much as it did in this ca. 1954 photo.

A165 The front porch posts have been changed (about 1986) and botched, but otherwise the house looks like this today (1992).

A166 Different angle.

A167 Frontal view.

A168 "This impressive mansion has a tile roof. It was torn down perhaps late in 1959, before the ""new"" Crawford School was built on this site. Photo shows east (front) and north sides."

A169 Different angle. Shows east (front) and south sides.

A170 "This is the 1856 brick house that Joseph Grover built. See ""Leaves of Thyme"", Dec.1975, pgs.3-6 ."

A171 Photo shows west (front) and south sides. Rear (east) has an enclosed porch. General G.K.Steele lived here at the time of his death. This was also the home of Frederick R. Benson, a generous benefactor and philanthropist.

A172 In the background is Taylor's Garage, 517 Chestnut St., 1949 City Directory. However, I did not find this photo until long after I had most of the others such as A173, Vandalia Beauty Shop. This shop was not listed in any of the directories. About 1955 the house at 328 was torn down and replaced by ISU's new Home Economics Building.

A173 "The ""Vandalia Beauty Shop"" is not listed in any City Directory. Federal-Greek-Revival Style architecture."

A174 The front porch was probably added in 1890.

A175 On the southwest corner of 6th and Chestnut.

A176 House at the extreme left has been razed in next two photos. Note: two cars late 20's and late 30's.

in this photo. Photo was taken ""Week of April,1952""."

A178 Photographer was standing southeast of site.

A179 Front porch has been removed. House appears to be vacant, possibly prior to demolition.

A181 Situated due south of the intersection of N 6th and Locust Sts., the house nevertheless faced east toward Lafayette Avenue. On right side of photo is rear of the Rex Theater. Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg.37.

A182 Much like A 181 but photographer was standing back.

A183 Close-up of east front.

A184 Shows the north gable end, the intersection of N 6th and Locust, and the backdoors of the Rex Theater.

A185 Close-up of A184.

A186 Much like A185. Skiff of snow on ground.

A187 "This house (front section) burned about 1982. Was the home of ""Mad""(Madeline) Manson. Of greatest interest here is the 1 1/2-story north ell (on left side of photo) that has two ""eyebrow"" windows. It is Federal style."

A189 "This house is identified as the ""Cunningham"" house on the Terre Haute Map of 1854. More of the south side with delapidated balcony is visible with an old truck backed up underneath the balcony and a swingset in frontyard. In the background is the belfry that once graced the 4th Avenue M.E. Church."

A190 Same as A189 only smaller.

A192 The former home of Dr. Stephen J. Young. Positively identified by his grandson, Charles Hord Ray. House stood at the northeast corner of 6th and Walnut, where there has been a parking lot for many years. The building next door (to the left of photo) was 128 1/2 S 6th for many years the apartment of Max Ehrmann (1872-1945). See 1911 Fire Insurance Map, pg 157.

A194 The windows are gone. House is being demolished. The newest car in the photo is a '48 - perhaps the date of demolition or shortly thereafter. In 1942 Rev. Fred W. Henderson lived there- see City Directory.

A195 The house is being demolished. 128 S 6th is also being torn down.

A196 Slightly different angle.

A199 Trimmed photo much like A197.

A200 trimmed photo much like A195 but closer up.

A202 This large brick residence is still standing in November 1992. The house was made taller sometime after 1907. Garden Home Apartments on left side of photo.

A203 Different angle.

A204 "This magnificent Italianate 2-story brick house with stone quoins was constructed beginning in June,1874. The circular cartouche on the front of the house below the square tower says ""1874"". The house built by William B. Warren (1817-1884) occupied 1/4 of the block, bounded by 5th and 6th and Crawford and Deming Sts. Annie Warren's marriage to Jay H. Keyes on May 11,1891 was THE social event of the season. Many wedding receptions were held at the residence so that the multitude could choose which day to attend. Regrettably, announcement of the demolition of the Warren-Keyes residence was published in the October 16, 1937 "Saturday Spectator". Note: The house at 900-904 S 4th once stood at 723 S 6th. Tradition states that William B. Warren did not want to tear his former, Grecian Style home down; so he had it moved to 4th and Park Street. DNL"

A205 Same as A204 but smaller size.

A206 This is the largest, best photo that shows both the front (east) and side (south) porches - and also shows the adjoining house to the north, 709 S 6th, which still stands (Nov. 1992).

A207 Same as A206 but smaller.

A208 Same as A204 but smaller and dimmer image.

A617 This house and the following 7 houses have front doors in the gable end. House also has sideporch in the wing. Steep roof.

A209 Same as A206 but smaller and dimmer image.

A216 Summer. Dark shadow. Shows tiny northwest porch.

A211 The Theodore Hulman house. See the article on same by Juliet Peddle. The front (left) portion of the house is the oldest part and originally stood at the northwest corner of 6th and Poplar, where the parking lot of the AP&S Clinic is now (Nov. 10, 1992). Many interesting Terre Haute families lived here i.e. W.B. Tuell, investor; W.J. Ball, resident engineer of the Wabash and Erie Canal and Vandalia Railroad; and Theodore Hulman - businessman, whose daughter Anna (1873-1961) was one of Terre Haute's most accomplished pianists. The house was razed 1968. I like this photo because it shows the three sections of the house : left (oldest), middle (ca. 1865), right (ca. 1868). It also shows the semi-circular brick walk that goes up to the front door. I remember that walk - seeing it as a child. Today the site is occupied as a nursing home (Nov. 10, 1992). I used the woodwork from this house to replace that which had been removed about 1940 from my house at 900-904 S 4th Street. DNL

A212 This shows the north side of the house and the other half of the semi-circular brick walk. The tall, narrow Lombardy Poplars were memorable.

A232 Front (west) view of English Tudor Style House. Now the Sigma Pi House.

A213 The Moses Warner Williams House - 1856. Mrs. Grover Roll told me about this house. She said it originally stood at the southeast corner of 6th and Park (where the buff-colored brick house is now), left side of photo. It was then moved to the adjacent lot : date unknown. The 1 1/2-story addition on south side was built in 1915. Later brown asbestos shingles were nailed over the weatherboards.

A214 Photo shows west (front) of this 2-story Italianate. The southside addition appears to be Twentieth Century.

A215 "The Ludowici-Cajacob House, but since 1983 or thereabouts "Richard's Townhouse Restaurant" to the hundreds who have patronized it. Built in "1873" is proclaimed from below the circular window in the pediment of the west (front) gable. All the photos in the front show it with 1-story porch, which I think Dr. Melville Cajacob may have had removed after 1956. There is a 1956 Chevrolet at the right side of the photo. Photos A215 - A222 show the tiny porch at the northwest corner of the house that has been removed."

A217 Summer. Lighter shadows. Shows tiny northwest front porch.

A218 Winter. Shows tiny northwest porch, now gone except for foundation.

A219 Winter. Shows tiny northwest porch (now gone). Broad expanse of brick pavement (S 6th St.).

A220 Very much like A219.

A221 Different angle than A219 but comparable in many respects.

A222 Shows tiny northwest porch (now gone). Very broad brick expanse at intersection of S 6th and Farrington Sts. Shows neighboring house south of 1000 S 6th, which is 1012.

A224 Shows west (front) and south sides. Two 1956 Chevys in foreground indicate photo was not taken before Oct.1955, when that model was introduced.

A225 Slightly different angle than A224.

A227 Same as A226 but smaller.

A228 Same as A227 but smaller.

A229 Excellent photo of brick carriage house, now Suzanne Atkinson's Interior Design studio. 1950 Pontiac Streamliner in foreground.

A230 Same as A229 but shows 1003 S. Center more clearly. A local tradition states that John B. Ludowici built 1003 S.Center directly behind his own home for his daughter and son-in-law. Also that 1003 had the same floor plan as his own home, at 1000 S 6th, but 1003 was smaller. I can neither prove or disprove this tradition though no Ludowicis married in Vigo County at the time needed and census records ( a George T. Brosius lived in 1003 S Center in the 1890's) don't prove it either.

A233 Slightly different angle.

A234 Georgian Style 2 1/2-story stone house. In the 1950's this was perhaps Terre Haute's finest home - certainly it was one of the most dignified and beautiful. Now the Lambda Chi Alpha house, it has deteriorated considerably.

A236 Different angle. Better view of solarium.

A237 Much like A235 but photographer was further back.

A238 This is the Theta Chi house that burned about 1967 to 1970. It was an exceptionally nice English Tudor Style. Note address on curbstone.

A239 Different angle.

A240 Different angle. Summer.

A241 Home of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Hulman, Jr. Shows the east (front) portico and part of the south wing.

A242 Same as A241 but photo is lighter.

A243 Slightly different angle than A241 - A242.

A244 Slightly different than A243 but closer up and somewhat like A241 - A242. The grounds seem to be unkempt (too many bushes).

A245 Direct frontal view. The perfect symmetry of the house is easily apparent and satisfying.

A246 Same as A245 but smaller size.

A247 Shows south side. Foreground looks unkempt with scruffy bushes and concrete walk (?).

A248 Same as A247 but smaller.

A249 Close-up of front porch as seen from south side.

A250 "The oval-shaped ornament in the south side gable pediment bore the date ""1877"". I remember that the house was painted barn red with white trim. The second story shutters on front (west side) were undoubtedly 20th Century. Next door (to the left) is Washington Avenue Presbyterian Church, but this house, which was the Parsonage for Rev. Louie Alderton was built before the church by several years. In foreground is a '49 or '50 Ford 4dr.sedan. Regrettably the City Directory lists the house as ""vacant"" in 1973, and it was torn down about then."

A251 "Again, this photo shows the house as it appears in its later years. One parishoner told me, incorrectly, that the house was in ""bad shape"". However, I saw it inside one time and would have to disagree!"

A252 Shows west (front) and part of south side. The house is being painted white. A painter is standing on the front porch roof. This photo is perhaps earlier. Maybe the 1940's.

A253 "Rather similar to A252. The painter is still ""at work"" but 1414 is partially visible here."

A254 Shows front porch (with house painters at work) and the north side, which was adjacent to Washington Avenue Presbyterian Church.

A255 Quite similar to A254 but shows broader view, Washington Avenue Presbyterian Church, 1410 (in center) and 1414 S 6th.

A256 This is a very nice example of an English cottage built in brick. The roofline is interesting with it projecting dormers and chimneys. Ray Ingram bought this house recently (1992) and has renovated it. Frontal view (almost).

A257 "This photo shows the south side. Notable in the background, which features 1509 S 6th, 1509 has been remodeled badly. Using this photo as a guide, the ""botched"" remodeling could be corrected!"

A258 This was a 2 1/2-story brick house with the attic being frame. It stood at the southwest corner of N 6 1/2 and Sycamore. It was about midway between what is now (Nov.1992) the northeast entrance of Holmstedt Hall and the east entrance of Cunningham Memorial Library. I remember this house in my undergraduate days. The porch had been removed and the attic trim i.e. bargeboard, etc. removed. It housed apartments. The yard (on left side of photo) had been graveled and turned into a parking lot by the late 1950's. The property is plainly shown in Vol.1, pg.22 of the 1955 Fire Insurance Maps.

A259 Different angle and closer up. Shows more front porch details and looking westward on Sycamore Street.

A260 This 1-story brick house is still standing (Nov.1992). It has been painted gray. It is rather close to the Big Four railroad (N.Y.Central).

A261 Different angle. This shows the back (east side) of the house.

A262 "This ""insul-brick"", 2-story house still stands (Nov.1992) at the northwest corner of 6 1/2 St. and 3rd Avenue. In 1987 it was called the Manson Apartements. It is very close to what was formerly the home of ""Mad"" Madeline Manson. See A187."

A262a "For many, many month this house was an enigma. A nice house - but obviously near downtown as there are parking meters. Then I discovered a clue in A262b - i.e. the house number, which appears to be ""213"". The building in the background is the Masonic Temple."

A262b "1956 Ford Stationwagon in foreground, but the house is shown as recently torn down in 1955 Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg.7. Obviously photo must have been taken around Nov.1,1955 when the ""new"" 1956 autos had been offered for sale."

A262c A serene and dignified house, Could have been a parsonage for St. Stephen's or Central Christian Church ? Shape of house agrees with Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg7.

A263 This house was next to (across the alley from) the old ISTC Gymnasium that once stood at the northwest corner of 7th and Eagle. It is more clearly visible in the next photo (A264).

A264 This shows the old gymnasium that burned in the latter part of July 1984. To the right is the (1959) William S. Steward gas station (D-X, I think) that stood at the southwest corner of 7th and Chestnut.

A265 Identical to A264.

A266 This is the south (Elm St.) side of 801 N 7th. It was the Laloux grocery store in 1958. I have been told that the back part, which is a saltbox, visible in this photo was once a city school.

A267 Slightly different angle.

A268 "To the left is the rear of the ""saltbox"" portion of 801 N 7th. In the center is 807."

A269 This shows the front, which had a porch but in later years the porch was removed.

A270 Shows the south side, which fronts on Farrington Street. This is the former home of Grace Hulman, mother of Tony Hulman, Jr. (1901-1977).

A271 This photo also shows the south side. This one was taken in a different year because the trees and shrubs have been changed. Now (Nov. 1992) a fraternity has owned it for 10 years and the house has deteriorated considerably.

A272 "Shows the east (front) and south sides. House has a Pfister ""For Sale"" sign on it. The owner, Mary Jane Duncan, 84, was murdered here in 1949. Thus, the house was put up for sale."

A273 Close-up. Photo probably taken in late Oct. 1949 after Miss Duncan was murdered that Summer.

A274 Same as A273 but more faded.

A275 Sign says 8th and Mulberry. It was 131 N 8th in 1936 City Directory. I think it may have been torn down shortly after in 1936, though it was a substantial 2-story brick house with lots of style. Hulman Civic Center occupies the site. I remember when it was the used car lot for Downtown Chevrolet in the mid-1950's.

A276 The Brigetta Prox home according to 1936 City Directory. It once stood on the grounds of the Masonic Temple.

A277 Slightly different angle than A276. In the background is St. Stephen's Church.

A277a The Jim Watson house in 1976. South of the NYC tracks.

A278 Shows the east (front) and 1-story wing to the south.

A279 "The Moses Myers house. It is pictured on pg. 76 of "" On The Banks Of The Wabash "" - SPC 977.2450 ."

A280 Different angle from A279.

A281 The house at 425 N 9th. It was on the south side of the Brinkman Hotel until c. 1954. However, it is gone (not shown) on the 1955 Fire Insurance Map by Sanborn.

A283 There was no 437 N 9th. 431 (at extreme right) was the Brinkman Hotel.

A287 Frontal view of this 2-story brick house near the southeast corner of 9th and Walnut. At the turn-of-the-century it was the Christopher Stark Bottling Works that was close to this site.

A288 "This shows the west (front) but especially the south side. The house ""rambles"" to the east toward S 9 1/2 Street."

A289 This is a very small brick house that has Classical Revival overtones. The gingerbread porch was added later, probably about 1896.

A290 This is a large 2 1/2-story brick house. The attic-1/2 story is wood. House at left is 222 S 9th.

A291 Identical to A290 but smaller size.

A292 Identical to A290 but smaller size.

A293 This 1 1/2-story house has a prominent gable on the front, which faces east. The house next door (at right side of photo) is 235 S 9th.

A294 Very similar to A293.

A295 This is the frame 1 1/2-story house that once stood at the northwest corner of 10 1/2 and Chestnut - 302 N 10 1/2 Street. See Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg.24.

A296 This impressive frame 2-story house once stood near the northeast corner of N 11th and Mulberry. See Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg.9.

A297 Very similar to A296.

A298 Frontal view. Close-up showing double doors.

A299 Same as A298 only darker.

A299a I found this photo (showing the south and east sides) at a late date, because they did present a different appearance.

A299b Same as A299a except smaller.

A300 Frontal view. Much like A298 and A299 but photographer was farther back. In the righthand background is the old Red Men's Hall, northeast corner of 12th and Mulberry still standing (Dec.2,1992).

A302 "This house near the northwest corner of 13th and Mulberry was still standing 5-8-1992 but getting quite ""rundown""."

A302a See Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg.31. This house has been remodeled but is still recognizable with different siding and front porch.

A302b Same as A302a but smaller.

A302c Same as A302b.

A302d Same as A302b and A302c.

A303 "Residence of Dr. J.R.Willis, County Coroner, 1900 City Directory. Also pictured on pg. 50 of ""Historical Industrial Record"" - SPC 338.097H. It is now the site of the Maplewood Christian Church."

A304 Same angle as A303, but this photo was taken in summer.

A305 This is a large 2-story brick duplex that once stood at 18-20 S 13th. It has been gone many years, but I was able to identify it because of the tiny frame house that still stands (at right edge of photo).

A306 Same as A305 but smaller.

A307 Same as A306 but lighter.

A307a "For many month these (A307a - A307h) were in my ""unidentified 1-story frame house"" classification. Then I followed through on a hunch on Feb.2, 1993. I discovered 4 clues to solve the identity of these photos: 1.) The porch in shadow in the foreground of A307a. 2.) The 1955 Fire Insurance Map Vol.2,pg.170 - S 13 1/2 Street. 3.) The knowledge that Jess W.Smith, photographer, lived at 312 S 13 1/2 St. for many years. 4.) The actual houses in the photograph coincided. 312 S 13 1/2 has the porch that is in shadow in the foreground. I asked myself...Why would the photographer take a picture from a porch? My hunch.... It was his own front porch, and he decided to ""take"" the houses across the street. Yesterday, Feb.2,1993, I discovered that these houses still exist, but the wooden, squarish post of 312 S 13 1/2 Street has been replaced by a modern, poor quality iron post. House across the street at left is 307 S 13 1/2 Street."

A307b House at left of photo is 317. It is gone now. At right is 313. It still stands and has a single window, but the siding is changed. Note the narrow concrete sidewalk that goes to both of 313's front doors. It's still there.

A307c House at right is 307. It still has three windows along the south side and a shorter window toward the back that faces S 13 1/2 Street. It also has today a narrow concrete sidewalk that goes along close to the house. In this photo the walk is partly obscured by fallen leaves as photo was probably taken around Oct.30th or later.

A307e 317 is gone. 313 looks much like this today except modern siding has covered over the first door, but the stone step is still there.

A307f Different angle. 317 was either torn down or burned.

A307g "I did not see this house on S 13 1/2 when I went there Feb.2,1993. Several have been torn down since the 1955 Fire Insurance Map (Vol.2,pg.170). ""Though unidentified"" I am grouping this photo and the NEXT one with A307a-A307c since they were both taken in October and on the same film."

A307h Probably close to 312 S 13 1/2 Street. Houses in deep shadow.

A308 "This is the old ""Davis Park"" house that Juliet Peddle mentions in her scrapbook of ""Early Terre Haute Homes"". It is not shown on the Terre Haute Map of 1854 and Peddle thinks it was built about 1863-64. The old (first) Davis Park School was built in 1910 and so this house was moved to its present location at the southeast corner of 16th and Orchard before then. It is now on Lot 251 Gilbert's 2nd Subdivision. Here the house has a bizarre eave treatment with dozens of pendants dangling from the eaves. That is the way it was back in the 1860's."

A309 Same as A308 but closer up.

A310 Same as A309.

A311 Something like A308 but photo taken at a different time of day.

A312 "Frontal view. ""Bizarredangling pendants from eaves."" That was part of the original design, but the wings have been removed."

A315 "This is the first photo to show the remodeled Davis Park house. The ""dangling pendants"" have been removed and replaced by plain, ""conventional"" fascia boards. House looks more modern but has lost considerable ""style"". Photo shows west (front) and south side."

A316 Much like A315 but smaller.

A317 Frontal view.

A318 Front (west) porch is seen as viewed from south side.

A319 "Photo shows south side. Contrast this with A314. Note: after these photos were taken asbestos shingles were used to cover the weatherboarding and the house lost still more ""style"". It is still standing (Dec.3,1992)."

A320 The 2-story frame house at the southwest corner of 17th and College. By Dec.1989 the front porch had been removed except for a very small roof over the front door. This photo also shows the south side with its semi-hexagonal 1-story bay window.

A323 Photo probably taken about 1950 when State Road 46 was a narrow concrete road to Riley,Ind. This is the John S. Ladd home (1861-1924). His daughter, Anita, married my great-uncle Glenn Green (1896-1970). DNL. About 1984 this house was turned into a wood-burning stove retail outlet. Apparently, it was unsuccessful. By 1987 it had been vacated, vandalized by 1988 and completely torn down about 1989. The outbuildings are gone also.

A324 This is a nearly frontal view of the John S. Ladd home. The front porch was on the west side of the house as the house was on the east side of S.R.46, about half a mile north of the intersection of Margaret Avenue. It was in Lost Creek Township,Sect.32 (W.1/2).

A325 This is a serene scene. The Ladd house appears to have a backdrop of beautiful shade trees. It looks rather idyllic.

A326 This would appear to be a 1890's farmhouse that has since become somewhat surrounded by the city. Behind is the Bunch Nursery.

A327 Slightly different angle.

A328 In this, and the next two photos, the photographer was standing in the middle of S. Brown Ave. and looking northward to the house at 1450.

A329 Same as A328.

A330 Same as A328 and A329.

A331 This unpainted 2-story duplex was once at 409-411 Canal Street. In the right is a crude shed and to the left is 415 Canal Street. Note to Canal Street: These unpainted, dilapidated houses once stood in the 400 block of Canal Street. They are not shown on the 1911 Fire Insurance Map and they were torn down before the 1955 Fire Insurance Map. They were situated on the south side of the New York Central R.R. between N 4th and 5th Streets.

A332 Different angle. The background has houses that would seem to be in the 500 block of Canal Street though they are not listed in the City Directory cross reference! Perhaps they faced 5th Street.

A333 Frontal View.

A334 Different angle. N 5th Street appears to be very narrow, especially when compared with A332. 411-415 Canal Street see 1947 City Directory.

A335 Much the same as A334.

A335a Both these houses have been extensively remodeled (botched). The front porches are gone and vinyl siding added, etc.

A336 This photo was taken about 1949 before the aluminum siding was added.

A337 Slightly different angle than A336.

A338 This is an English Tudor Style house.

A339 Same as A338 but smaller size.

A340 In 1936 this was the office of the Terre Haute Water Works. At 636 was the Union Cleaners. Part of the roof has been removed and a few windows.

A341 Much the same as A340.

A342 Close-up.

A343 "I ""figured"" this one out over a period of several month. In one of the old ISU ""Sycamore"" yearbooks, this house was visible in the background. It was on the north side of Chestnut Street, a short distance east of N 6 1/2 Street. House at extreme left is 658."

A344 Rather like A343 except a '47 Cadillac is parked in the right foreground.

A345 This shows the large yard, surrounded by a dignified iron fence, that was to the east side of 660-662 Chestnut Street.

A346 "The clue here is a building in right background that says ""Air Conditioning"". There were not many such businesses in Terre Haute in 1952."

A347 "Another clue... building in right background says ""F.W.""- for F.W. Johnson Air Conditioning that was located at 412 N 7th in 1952 - and only in 1952. House at extreme left is 658 Chestnut Street."

A348 Here the house is being torn down. A '50 Buick in the foreground could indicate approximate date of demolition.

A349 Here both the house and the yard are looking unkempt. House at 658 Chestnut is at extreme left. See Sanborn Fire Insurance Map 1896, pg.45. 658 was torn down in 1961. See Dorothy Clark article in June 11, 1961 Tribune Star, pg.4.

A350 "The #1112 is used on the 1955 Sanborn Fire Insurance Map. This once magnificent 2-story brick Italianate house stood at the northeast corner of N 11th and Chestnut until it was razed about 1990 or 1991. In this photo it has a (Pfister) ""For Sale"" sign on it. Note: in the later years the house also bore a 303 N 11th Street address."

A351 A smaller version of A350.

A352 This is a close-up of the impressive south (front). There is a trace of snow on the ground.

A353 The photographer is much farther back than A352.

A354 Different angle than A353.

A355 This shows th N 11th Street side. Note the scalloped detail of the gingerbread porch and contrast with next photo.

A356 The scalloped detail of the gingerbread front porch has been removed.

A357 This photo shows much of the back (north) side and west (11th St) side and indicates the house had a cruciform design.

A358 Like A357.

A359 "This shows the south (front) side and also the west side of the house that had a 1-story addition that extended northward. It was a beautiful 2-story brick that had much more ""warmth"" than the rather austere preceding house that was at 112 Chestnut Street. Unfortunately 1434 was last listed in the 1977 City Directory as ""vacant"". It must have been burned or razed in 1977 or 1978."

A360 Closer up than A359. This was the home of Robert Andrew and is pictured midway back in Terre Haute Illustrated, 1889.

A362 This shows the west side of the house as well as the south (front) side.

A363 "Although someone has marked in ink ""16th and Chestnut"" on the back, it is actually at the southwest corner of 17th and Chestnut."

A364 This modest 1 1/2-story Gothic cottage stood on the east side of the alley that was midway between 3rd and 4th Sts., on the north side of Deming. It was torn down in the late 1970's to make a parking lot.

A365 I can identify this duplex at 110-112 Farrington St. by personal recollection and Sanborn Fire Insurance Map Vol.2, pg.174. At extreme right is 114 Farrington Street. In background are Sycamores in Fairbanks Park that surround Paul Dresser birthplace.

A366 This dignified Italianate house was the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Smith in 1977. It's still standing Dec.26,1992.

A367 The stonework gives this house a distinctive appearance. In the 1936 City Directory this was the home of Dr. Frank Young (1866-1939).

A368 Harding Avenue was also known as S 2nd Street. At left is the former home of Dr. Allen Pence, an early Spiritualist. (1947 City Directory).

A369 The former home of Dr. Pence was Italianate with a Mansard roof. (1949 City Directory)

A371 The former Home of Dr. Allen Pence. Note the sagging front porch roof.

A371a "This house (floorplan) is visible on the Apr.1886 Fire Insurance Map at the southwest corner of Harding (2nd St.) and Walnut Street. This photo was in an envelope marked ""S 2nd"" - a BIG CLUE. To ""cinch it"", though, there is a photograph in Oakey's ""Terre Haute Illustrated"" about midway through the volume (the pages are not numbered) titled ""Looking South From Dome of Court House"". This photo shows 203 Harding Avenue!"

A373 This unpainted 2-story house has a 1 1/2-story ell at the back. Note the small pane of glass that was missing from one of the upstairs windows. See Vol.2, pg.175 Sanborn Fire Insurance Map.

A375 Different angle.

A376 Much like A374 but photo was taken on a different day as the broken windowpane has been replaced.

A377 This shows the south side of 633 that was parallel to Crawford Street.

A378 A brick 1 1/2-story house.

A379 This house was situated adjacent to the northwest corner of Harding Avenue and Washington.

A380 Much like A379 but closer up.

A381 Different angle. Smokestacks in the background were Commercial Solvent, now Pitman-Moore.

A382 Very different angle.

A383 This is the 1 1/2-story brick house that stood at the northeast corner of Harding Avenue and Hulman Street. At the rear was the Lion Apron Company at 206 Hulman Street. The house and grounds were always well-kept. These people had a work ethic.

A383a This was one of the last houses that I was able to identify. Siding has been put on it. Otherwise, it looks much like this today. It is outside of the city limits. It faces southward and overlooks the Thompson Reservoir.

A383b This photo and the two photos following, were among the last I identified, hence, the unusual numbers. This shows the west side that faces Keane Lane. However, the 2-story porch (on south side) is visible. The graveled driveway is now asphalt.

A383c Slightly different angle.

A383d This shows the 2-story porch better and large chimney. This is now (1991) the John Ermisch home.

A384 "Residence of Daniel McCarty according to the 1947 City Directory. Advertisement on north gable end of house reads ""Bargain Bill...119 N 4th St.""

Business building at right side of photo is Myron Ralston's used household goods."

A384a Same as A384.

A385 The Daniel McCarty residence. The crude front porch is gone and a tarpaper addition has been added to the right (south) side.

A386 "Different angle. At right side is the "'1 Stop Swap Shop"' at 609 N 4th."

A386a "I was able to identify this house only because of the Fire Insurance Maps, Vol.1, Pg.65. The house on the map beside the alley has a projecting semi-hexagonal bay window. The houses and garages in the background also fit perfectly. This photo was in an envelope marked "'Lafayette'", which helped me look at the right area on the Fire Insurance Maps."

A386b "This house is gone. It appears for the last time in the 1958 City Directory and is "'vacant'". The only way I could identify it was because it was in an envelope marked "'Liberty Ave'". I then looked at the 1955 Fire Insurance Map, Vol.1, pg.32 to "'find'" the house at 1421 Liberty Avenue. This house is small with pleasing lines though, and is marked as a "'1-story'" on the 1955 map though it appears in the photos to be a 1 1/2-story. In A386b a backporch is barely visible. The house at left, 1427 Liberty Avenue, is still (Feb.10,1993) standing, but the front porch has been enclosed."

A386c Different angle. Ell at the back is visible.

A386d Yard is grown up in weeds.

A386e Different angle.

A387 I recall seeing these identical looking 1-story brick houses. Eventually they were neglected and were torn down, I think in the 1970's.

A388 Different angle.

A388a This photo was discovered at a much later date.

A389 Here the houses are seen from the west side and rear.

A390 This small brick house was apparently built as a duplex.

A391 This house is still standing (Jan.2,1993) on the north side of Oak Street, but the front porch was removed a long time ago.

A392 The 2-story brick in center of photo still stands (Jan.2,1993) but the porch has been torn off. At left is 818 Ohio Street, which was torn down many years ago - perhaps 10. At right is the old K. of C. (Knights of Columbus) which once stood at the northwest corner of 9th and Ohio.

A393 Close-up showing details of front porch that is now gone.

A394 Different angle.

A395 Shows K. of C. at right side. In right upper part of photo is the tall roof with many dormer windows of the Lundstrom Printing Company at 27-29 S 9th.

A396 Different angle. Dormer windows of 27-29 S 9th are visible. See description of A395.

A397 This distinguished 2-story brick house looks much like this today.

A400 This stone 2-story house is surely one of the finest homes in Terre Haute. Class!

A401 This is an English Tudor Style. From about 1975-1989 it was the home of the Lester Wolf family, son of Carl Wolf, clothier. I was in the house many times.

A402 The little brick house behind Merchant's Tavern. This photo may have been taken around 1956-57, which was my paper route at that time.

A403 Different angle. Here the photographer is looking westward toward Merchant's Distillery, the warehouse of which is partly visible in the upper right corner of photo. Note the general squalor. These were mostly hardliving people. Yet, a few feet away at 115 Osborn lived elderly Ambrose B. and Nellie M. Otten, who were gentle and refined. They grew passion vines indoors over the winter months and had a lovely singing canaries. They were wonderful! I suppose they were about 80 years old in 1956. Memories!

A404 This is an Italianate house that has had a 2-story front porch added. House at right is 512 Osborne.

A405 Just like A404 but smaller size.

A406 "This house was torn down before the 1955 Sanborn Fire Insurance Map. It became a parking lot and is now part of the ""drive through"" for Chicago Pizza. The house next door, 667, with the striped metal awnings is still standing (Jan.2,1993) and still has the striped awings!"

A407 Different angle.

A408 Frontal view. In 1949 this was the home of Mrs. Frank (Elizabeth) Houriet.

A409 "Jess Smith must have been intrigued by the ancient looking frame house at 809-11 Poplar Street, because he took 15 photos of it (A409-A423)! Perhaps because it was ""on his way home,"" which was near 13 1/2 and Poplar Streets. Most of the paint had ""weathered"" away from the weatherboards long before these photos were taken c. 1952. The house is shown on the April 1886 Fire Insurance Map but would have been old then. It looks like the kind of house that would have been in Terre Haute in 1820 and then moved to this ""east"" location after the Civil War when Water Street and S.First Street became industrialized. This house could have been built in the 1820's but surely not on this location. It was on lot 8 or 9 of Fontaine's Addition. See pg.85 of ""1874 Vigo Atlas"" Reprint."

A410 "This photo is important because it shows the entire facade of 807 Poplar St. - the F.W.Shaley Grocery and Provision store on pg.63 of the ""1874 Atlas"" reprint. Why would that store have had an important doorway on its east side just 2 ft. away from 809 Poplar Street ? I think 809-811 was moved in after 1874 or whenever the Shaley store was built."

A411 Quite similar to A410.

A412 Much like A410.

A413 Much like A410.

A414 Much like A410.

A415 Much like A410.

A416 More of a frontal view. In left background are the smokestacks of Terre Haute Brewing Company at 9th and Swan that made Champagne Velvet (CV) beer. In later years it became Chesty Potato(e) Chip.

A417 Rather similar to A416 but 10 ft. logs are stacked against the house.

A418 Frontal view. Murky winter day.

A419 The front (north) and east sides are visible in this Summertime photo. Morning Glory vines are climbing up the east wall to the chimney.

A420 Much like A414 but logs are still stacked against the house as in A417.

A421 "Photographer is looking ""west""."

A422 Much like A414.

A423 This is the only photo of the rear of the house (the south side).

A424 In Jan.1993 this house still looks much the same and is Lowry's Antiques.

A425 Similar to A424.

A426 Photographer was farther back. The neighboring houses on either side are visible.

A427 This is a rearview of 1242 Poplar Street. In 1992 it was a Womens' used clothing store.

A428 Very similar to A427.

A429 Frontal view of 1-story frame cottage with small front porch.

A430 Different angle.

A431 This 2-story brick house of Colonial design was probably built in the 1930's. In 1952 it was the home of Dr. John R. Haslem.

A432 Different angle.

A433 Shows the south (front) and west side.

A434 "The following 8 photos must have been taken about 1947 or 1948 when the house was vacant and in very poor condition. By 1949 Mrs. Hermine Mayer Cox (later Haslem) bought the house and it became 2501 Poplar Street. In its later years the front porch was "cut down" to 1/3 its original size. It was torn down about 1970 to make way for a gas station and car wash. Originally it was the Charles B. Brile House. See Juliet Peddle Scrapbook of "Early Terre Haute Homes".

A435 Almost the same as A434.

A436 This shows the east side. Both house and grounds are in very poor condition.

A437 Shows the east gable end better than A436. I was in the house shortly before it was razed. The attic ran the full length of the house as one long narrow room.

A438 This shows the west gable end and ell.

A439 Shows west gable end.

A440 "Much like A439. Note the "smaller" front porch from c.1949. Compare with larger original porch in A434."

A441 Much like A439 but photographer was further away.

A442 This is the address of the old 2-story farm house in the 1993 Telephone book. It is the residence of J. Mack Wilson. The old barn nearby has housed crude antiques for a long time. In 1972 I bought 3 iron skillets there. This photo shows the west gable end and ell that extends southward. The north (front) is in heavy shade. The East Side Drive-In Theater used to be adjacent to this house but was torn down perhaps 15 years ago - c.1977.

A443 Much like A442.

A444 This shows the east gable end.

A445 This shows the east gable end of the barn - and in the distant background the east gable end of the house.

A446 Slightly different than A445.

A447 Color transparency of the east gable end.

A448 Color transparency of the east gable end.

A449 This house had a 2-story front section and a 1-story ell. I remember seeing this house as it was adjacent to my 1956-57 paper route. The house in the background was on the route.

A450 Slightly different angle.

A451 This shows the south and east (rear) sides. Note the logyard in the foreground. See 1955 Fire Insurance Map Vol.2. pg.200.

A452 This tall 2 1/2-story framehouse once had an elevator that has since been removed.

A453 I have been told that this was the Anton Mayer house. He was an early brewer here. In the left background is the Terre Haute Brewing Company that he owned. Dorothy Jane McCauley (1919-present) lived in this house during the Great Depression.

A454 "This is a frontal view. The house faced north. In this photo a cheap "insul-brick" covering has been nailed over the weatherboarding. This house was torn down by Shelton Hanning, building contractor, when he expanded his business."

A454a

A455 "This house still stands (Jan.7,1993) but seems ""threatened"" because a modern business was built in front of it. The gingerbread porch appears to be 1890's though the house itself may be older."

A456 This is a 1 1/2-story brick Gothic Style house that is hemmed in by business buildings.

A458 Smaller version of A457.

A459 Smaller version of A457.

A460 Same style as above but 1930's 4dr. sedan in foreground.

A461 This small frame house was to the east of the F.W.Hoff Grocery. See Fire Insurance Map Vol.1, pg.10.

A462 This large 2-story house was formerly occupied by the F.W.Hoff Grocery Store family as their home.

A463 Smaller version of A462. Photo was also taken a different year because the adjoining business' name was changed.

A463a "Though torn down by 1961 I can identify this building because of the background buildings. One of these is Terre Haute Auto Company - the Buick Company - at 1500 Wabash Avenue. It is now Wiemuth and Son Vending Company. Advertising sign on the house says ""1958...NOW MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK"". House and surrounding buildings fit much of the pattern of 1955 Fire Insurance Map, Vol.2, pg.163. However, house was not asbestos-sided as map indicates."

A463b "This shows the 1 1/2-story carriage house behind the house, which ""does"" tally with Vol.2, pg.163."

A464 This was the home of Betsy Ross Merrill's ancestors. It is adjacent to Highland Lawn Cemetery and pre-dates the Civil War.

A465 Incorrectly identified in an old picture postcard as the Paul Dresser birthplace. The address of this house was 115 Walnut Street. The actual Dresser birthplace was 318 Harding Avenue (or S Second St.). According to the 1949 City Directory William D. Mabe, a bottler for the Terre Haute Brewing Company, lived at 115 Walnut. About 1954 or 1955 it was torn down to make way for a Kroger Store parking lot. It is now (Jan.1993) a part of the parking lot for WBAK-TV. This small brick cottage has elements of the Federal Style popular in Indiana from 1800-1840.

A466 "Identical to A465. Shows the north (front) side, also the east gable with its sloping ""saltbox"" roof."

A467 Same as A466 but smaller.

A468 Shows front (north) side and east gable end privy at the back - one block from the Vigo County Courthouse!

A469 "Shows front (north) side and west gable with sloping ""saltbox"" roof."

A470 Same as A469 except smaller.

A471 Slightly different angle than A470.

A472 Shows north and west sides.

A473 Shows north and west sides, different angle though.

A474 Same as A473 but smaller.

A475 same as A474 but shows house in background better.

A476 Shows west side best. In foreground is front part of 1930's automobile.

A477 "In this photo the house has not been painted in years. Note the ""Adirondack"" chairs in the tiny frontyard. This house was behind (west of) the Phoenix Club, which was the Labor Temple, which was where the funeral service for E.V.Debs was held in 1926."

A478 The house has been painted white. The Adirondack chair is still there and the other chair is probably obscured by a c. 1950 Dodge parked in foreground. This house faced north.

A479 Same angle as A478.

A479a "South (front) and west side. Clue: truck that says ""Allen Tire Shop""."

A479b Same as A479a.

A480 House stood near the northwest corner of 8th and Walnut. In 1949 the Willis', Chiropractors, occupied the property. Note St. Benedicts in background.

A481 Different angle than A480.

A482 "This is the John C. Ross house as drawn by Juliet Peddle in her scrapbook of Early Terre Haute Homes. She states that it ""stood on an eminence at Fifteenth and Washington."" I vaguely remember this house - or at least a very old house on that site, but Peddle says it was torn down shortly after 1937. There is an old house at 1510 Wasington Avenue shown on the 1955 Fire Insurance Map, Vol.2, pg.213, but it is not the shape of the house according to the drawing of J. Peddle's Scrapbook."

A483 Identical to A482 except this photo is darker. This is the John C. Ross house but its last known address is a mystery as the names Peddle lists as occupants I cannot find in city directories of the period at the address they would need to be i.e. 15th and Washington.

A484 The birthplace of Charles T. Nehf (1857-?). See photo and news story in Terre Haute Tribune Sept.11, 1927, pg.10. Nehf thought the house was built in 1846.

A485 Shows south side with ell at the back.

A486 Same as A485 but smaller.

A487 Same as A485 but smaller.

A488 Shows west (front) and north side. House appears to be on an embankment that sloped down, presumably, to N Water Street.

A489 "Same as A488. In an envelope marked ""NEHF.""

A490 "Shows west (front) and south side. In an envelope marked ""NEHF""."

A491 "The house in this photo and the nine photos following may or may not have a fixed attic window. This photo and the next one are of the same house. The front door is in center of facade with a window on either side. Clue: In envelope marked ""S 1st.""

A492 Same angle.

A493 "This appears to be an ell or a wing attached to a 2-story brick commercial building. It has a comfortable looking front porch. Clue: was found in an envelope marked ""S 2nd St.""

A494 Same as A493.

A495 Cottage has arch-topped windows. There are similar looking houses on Liberty Avenue around 21st Street.

A496 Frontal view of A495.

A497 This house looks rather similar to the house incorrectly called the Paul Dresser birthplace. See A469. It isn't: the settings are much too different.

A498 Closer-up view of A497.

A499 I am wondering if this and the following photo might be different sides of the same house.

A500 See A499.

A501 This is a very small but once pleasing brick house but now surrounded by weeds.

A502 This looks very much like the picture that the Vigo County Historical Society has of the Benjamin J. Gilman Office, but I can't prove it without a side-by-side comparison.

A503 Was probably on S 1st Street. Note railroad in foreground.

A504 "Clue : photo was in an envelope marked ""N 2nd."" House appears to be stucco over brick."

A505 "This one has a very nice bargeboard below the gable, prominent keystones over the front windows, and a nice gingerbread porch. Photo in envelope marked ""N 9th.""

A506 Has prominent keystones over front door and window.

A507 This is a substantial house along a brick street.

A508 A modest house with arch-topped windows and small gingerbread porch. House in the background is in following classification i. e. 1 1/2 brick houses.

A509 "House has a gingerbread porch that is being supported by 2 x 6's since a concrete floor has been poured. Photo in envelope marked ""N 9th.""

A510 This house or carriage house (and the following 15 houses) definitely have a floored-attic with a window that could be opened. There would be enough room upstairs to live though the ceiling would be sloped. This is a very substantial, architectural carriage house with cupola. It looks something like the one behind Temple Israel on S 6th Street, but it isn't!

A511 Same as A510.

A512 This is a much more ordinary carriage house or garage - a plain rectangular block parallel to an alley. The doorway and windows have deteriorated.

A513 "Clue : In an envelope marked ""S 1st or S 2nd."" House has dentated cornice above porch stoop. Attic floor appears to have living space."

A514 Same as A513.

A515 Same house as A513 and A514 but in this frontal shot house appears to be a 1-story.

A516 This looks like a house that used to stand at the northeast corner of S 1st and McKeen, but I can't positively say for sure.

A517 This house is stucco - probably over brick. When new and well-maintained this house was probably charming with its decorative bargeboard. The brick street in foreground reminds me of S 1st but railroad tracks aren't visible.

A518 A very soundly constructed but small brick house.

A519 Has nice, small gingerbread porch and a bargeboard.

A520 Looks something like A519 but definitely isn't.

A521 "In an envelope marked ""S 2nd"". Looks a little like 1331 S 2nd but definitely is not."

A522 This house is wide enough to have 4 flanking arch-topped windows. It is the house in the background of A508.

A523 Has large dormer windows on right side of roof.

A524 House is situated close to street corner.

A525 "Very austere brick house with transom over doorway. A circa 1950 Pontiac ""Torpedo"" fastback is parked prominently in photo."

A526 This is a rather substantial brick house with stone hoods over 2nd story windows. I have no idea where it stood.

A527 Same as A526.

A528 Same as A526.

A529 Same as A526. Car in foreground has 1950 license plates.

A530 House looks something like 669 N Water Street, but it isn't. Compare with A490. The rear wings of the two houses are too dissimilar. The settings are also different.

A531 Same as A530.

A532 Same as A530 but the house has deteriorated more, some windows are broken out.

A533 "Stucco over brick. The stucco is very deteriorated. House appears ""ancient"" - like something you might see in the British Isles. Cars in photo are c. 1936 or older."

A534 Same as A533.

A535 Same as A533.

A536 Same house as A533-A535, but it has been repaired and painted and parking meter in foreground indicates date of 1949 (when meters were installed) or after.

A537 "An ""L-shaped"" house with 1-story porch."

A538 "Same house as A537. House number is quite indistinct but may say ""1228"". But what street?"

A539 "This house has a projecting, 2-story semi-octagonal bay - quite impressive. The house is narrow for its height. Clue: in envelope marked ""Poplar St."" , but I couldn't find any house with that configuration in the 1955 Fire Insurance Map or any of the older microfilm versions."

A540 Same house as A539. Slightly different angle.

A541 "Large Italianate duplex. Location unknown. 1949 Nash ""Airflyte"" and Studebaker coupe in foreground."

A542 Same house as A541 but cars are gone.

A543 This house and the next appear to be the same (but different sides). Photos were , however, taken at different times as the public building (at left) has apparently been torn down or burned down in A544.

A544 Almost certainly the same house as in A543.

A545 "This was a once-fine Italianate residence, but it is ""now"" in a business district. A sign says ""Buy Atlas Now"", but I can't determine whether that was gasoline or?"

A546 Another fine large Italianate.

A547 Still another fine Italianate - and unidentifiable.

A548 Somewhat Greek Revival in character. In an envelope marked N 9th.

A549 "Also in an envelope marked ""N 9th"" but this isn't the same house as A548."

A550 "This house has a 2-story porch with balcony. In an envelope marked ""S 3rd""."

A551 House has outside stairway to the 2nd floor.

A552 Photo taken in 1949 or early 1950.

A553 This house does not appear to be as old as most of the houses in this collection.

A554 This house has a certain amount of dignity even though it hasn't been painted in years. It is a duplex with a nice front porch across the front and has 4 windows.

A555 "In the background is a ""Standard"" gasoline sign, but after checking the c.1940 Directories, I couldn't ""find"" any ""Standard"" gas station in Terre Haute that would have been ""correct"" for this house."

A556 Slightly different angle from A554.

A557 "Clue: This small white cottage was in an envelope marked ""Lafayette Ave.""

House has a picket fence and appears to be out in the country."

A558 Different angle from A557. Picket fence in foreground.

A559 Shows picket fence above and pasture.

A560 This is a very small and modest house. Probably duplex inspite of its very small size.

A561 Same as A560.

A562 A small house with porch but much better quality than preceding house.

A563 Same As A562.

A564 "Shows two houses. The one on left has an attic cartouche that says ""1883."" House on right is quite similar but hasn't any cartouche."

A565 Different angle.

A566 "This appears to be a ""triplex"" since there are three front doors."

A567 "A ""shotgun"" house (one room wide)."

A568 "House bears the number ""811"" - but what street ?"

A569 House hasn't been painted in 50 years or more.

A570 Also unpainted, very modest and small.

A571 This is in better shape than A570. Picket fence. Structure in background serves beer, wine, and lunch.

A571a Same as A571 except smaller size.

A572 This house is better-kept and has much more architectural style. It has shutters and gingerbread around the front porch.

A573 This house is situated on a low hill about 7 feet above the public sidewalk.

A574 "There are 4 structures in this photo. The one in the center is a 1-story frame and it is partially obscured by the smoke of burning leaves. The house appears to be a duplex. I'm wondering why Jess Smith seems to have been rather ""taken"" by duplexes. Of course, he photographed many single-family residences."

A575 This is a farmhouse. It is set back from the road.

A576 "These two houses are partially alike, but the one at right has an attic cartouche that says ""1880."""

A579 House at right is in very poor condition.

A580 "This house (and the following six houses) are unpainted and in very poor condition though a few appear to be livable. A very small house. In an envelope marked ""S 1st."""

A581 Has center chimney.

A582 Transom over front door.

A583 House is located behind a junkyard.

A584 Mongrel dog beside front steps.

A585 Hosue is boarded up. Unlivable.

A586 "House has a long, angular porch. ""For Sale"" sign."

A587 "The houses in this category definitely appear to have a floored attic with windows that could be opened. There would be more than enough ""headroom"" upstairs to live though the ceiling would be sloped. Found in an envelope marked ""Lafayette Avenue."" On low hill."

A588 "Found in an envelope marked ""Lafayette Avenue"". Slightly different angle."

A589 Has long porch across the front.

A590 Different angle.

A591 Has a rather nice front porch. Otherwise plain.

A592 Different angle.

A593 "A ""shotgun"" house with front porch."

A594 Same as A593.

A595 "In spite of the fact that the windows are broken out the lines of this house are pleasing. In an envelope marked ""S 1st St.""

A596 Same as A595.

A597 "In an envelope marked ""N 1st St."" Railroad in foreground."

A577 "House in center is better-kept and has more ""style"" than most houses in this classification."

A578 This is the back of a house.

A599 Crude fence. House hasn't been painted in years.

A600 Same as A599.

A601 This is a soddid-looking house with nice gingerbread front porch. It has a house number that may read 103, 303, or 703. But what street ?

A602 Different angle.

A603 Extremely different angle from either A601 or A602.

A605 Same as A604 but closer up.

A604 "Clue: in an envelope marked ""S 1st St."" also, the photo shows what must be the S 1st St. railroad in the foreground. However, I could not find a house with this description on the Fire Insurance Map."

A690 This house has two bay windows across the second floor facade. Two front doors. Probably a duplex. Address would appear to be 547 - but there was no 547 Harding in 1940 City Directory.

A691 This house has two bay windows across the second floor facade. Unpainted and crude looking.

A692 This house has two bay windows across the second floor facade. Plain Italianate on corner lot.

A693 This house has two bay windows across the second floor facade. Quaint farmhouse set behind a picket fence.

A694 This house has two bay windows across the second floor facade. Farmhouse beside harvested cornfield. Reminds me of the house that once stood about 2300 Margaret Avenue.

A695 This house has three bay windows across the second floor facade. Farmhouse very close to nicely paved highway.

A696 Three bay windows across the second floor facade. House has low-pitched roof.

A697 Three bay windows across the second floor facade. House needs paint. Old cars in foreground.

A698 "Three bay windows across the second floor facade. Front door is in the gable end. House number is ""815.""

A699 Three bay windows across the second floor facade. House is nicely painted and dignified.

A700 "Three bay windows across the second floor facade. Photo was in an envelope marked ""Lafayette Ave."" Looks familiar, but I absolutely could not find any 2-story house with this configuration on the Fire Insurance Map!"

A701 "Three bay windows across second floor facade. House is beside old grocery store. '57 Buick in foreground and ""51"" Henry J. automobile."

A702 Three bay windows across second floor facade. House needs paint. Has tall first floor windows.

A703 "Three bay windows across second floor facade. In envelope marked ""N 2nd ."" House is situated beside shack."

A704 Three bay windows across second floor facade. Small but dignified

Italianate.

A705 Three bay windows across second floor facade. Very nicely kept, purely white house with much dignity.

A706 Three bay windows across second floor facade. Simple Italianate with ungainly looking porch posts.

A707 Three bay windows across second floor facade. House has nice, plain lines but needs paint.

A708 Three bay windows across second floor facade. Gingerbread porch.

A709 Three bay windows across second floor facade. House has plain Greek Revival lines but porch was added later.

A710 "Three bay windows across second floor facade. House number is 2??. Has ugly ""insul-brick"" asbestos siding."

A711 "Three bay windows across second floor facade. House appears to ""need attention."" It's beside a 2-story business."

A712 Four bay windows across second floor facade. House has crude additions. Railroad tracks in foreground.

A713 "Four bay windows across second floor facade. In envelope marked ""Ohio St"" but could not ""find"" it on Fire Insurance maps."

A714 "Four bay windows across second floor facade. House has ""Greek Revival"" lines but later front porch."

A715 Four bay windows across second floor facade. House appears to have #89 and #32 - obviously incorrect. On left is a duplex.

A716 House has five or more bay windows across second floor facade. House appears to be in country. Looks rather desolate (Winter).

A717 House has five or more bay windows across second floor facade. House appears to be in country. Looks rather desolate (Winter).

A210 "The back part is older than the front part, reputedly, the sections being constructed circa 1852 and 1862. The ""tiny"" front east porch was removed many years ago. Note: In the distant background 709 S 6th is visible. There is a vacant area where the Garden Home Apartments were built at 723 S 6th, former location of Warren-Keyes residence. This photo was taken before the 1955 Sanborn Fire Insurance Map, Vol.2, p.177."

A201a This house was later the site of the First Unitarian Universalist Society of Terre Haute (see: 1985 Terre Haute City Directory)
